

Subj: (no subject)
Date: 12/1/01 9:12:37 PM Central Standard Time
From: SShyman711
To: WarshauerP

The archery range was pretty much as we left it. Well it was in the same place anyway. The equipment is a bit newer and more modern. The targets are smaller, newer and mounted close to the ground. Of course Joe Hecht is no longer hanging out there, and to my sincere sadness, John Reder is also missing. It will take a bit of practice to get up to my old accuracy, but it would be fun to try. Maybe if we can have a few more reunions, I can get some practice shooting, swimming lakers and spraying Warshauer if he obliges by standing on the dock while I ski. Good wishes and I hope to see you all again soon. Steve Shyman.

Subj: (no subject)
 Date: 12/4/01 6:24:01 PM Central Standard Time
 From: SShyman711
 To: WarshauerP

The archery range was pretty much as we left it. Well it was in the same place anyway. The equipment is a bit newer and more modern. The targets are smaller, newer and mounted close to the ground. Of course Joe Hecht is no longer hanging out there, and to my sincere sadness, John Reder is also missing.

What a difference 21 years makes. I picked up first arrow in 1969 when I was just a diet table ridden camper from cabin 3. I spent time on the Archery range because I was just too fat and weak in the legs to get up on water skis. Thankfully by the next year, I got up, first time I might add.

I don't remember the day to day stuff on the range, but I do remember going to Camp Mosheva for a tournament. I think they used all kosher arrows, at least the foreskin seemed to be missing from their arrows. Maybe that's why we beat them so badly. It will take a bit of practice to get up to my old archer accuracy, but it would be fun to try. Maybe if we can have a few more reunions, I can get some practice shooting, swimming lakers and spraying Warshauer if he obliges by standing on the dock while I ski. Good wishes and I hope to see you all again soon. Steve Shyman.