

RIFLERY

1977 was a landmark year for the riflery department at Camp Waupaca. With Dan Ash's remarkable 100 prone and Ross Lipman's extraordinary 49 kneeling, two of Gary Rand's twenty-year-old records finally crumbled. During the first four weeks, ninety-five campers enrolled in basic, intermediate, and advanced classes; however, during the second four weeks, 127 were enrolled.

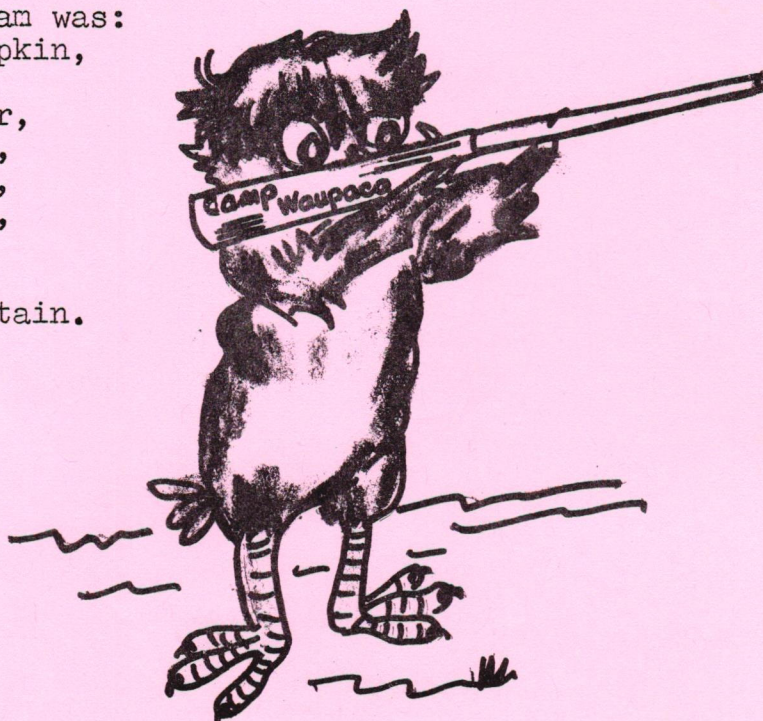

Several boys made substantial improvement this summer. Among them were: Dan Glickman, Jeff Rissman, David Waskin, Bill Kruzel, Alex Mozner, Dan Shaffer, Ross Weisman, and Neil Ornoff.

The 1977 Camp Waupaca Rifle Team was very good--the juniors had two wins and no losses in dual match competition, while the seniors had four wins and no losses.

The camp record for sitting was tied by several shooters. They were: Bryan Friedman, Aric Simons, Ross Lipman, Charles Lissner, Dan Ash, and Doug Weinberg.

The Senior Rifle Team was: Doug Weinberg, Phil Goldberg, Aric Simons, Bryan Friedman, Dan Ash, Ross Lipman, Robert Schneider, Ron Friedman, Darryl Marcus, Mark Sternberg, Neil Ornoff, Ross Weisman, Peter Vogel, Steve Silbar, Dan Shaffer, and Charles Lissner, team captain.

The Junior Rifle Team was:
Robert Schneider, Gary Lipkin,
Jeff Rissman, Keith Ross,
Phil Goldman, John Rubiner,
Jim Kurtzman, Jon Shulman,
Jon Yellen, Logan Collins,
Scott Bortz, David Kaplan,
David Waskin, Jeff Deer,
Alex Mozner, Bill Kruzel,
and Neil Ornoff, team captain.

SWIMMING

This year the waterfront staff was one of the best ever assembled at Camp Waupaca. The staff continually exerted itself in order to provide a program of highest quality. Both swimming and skiing instructors invested a tremendous amount of time during class, and especially outside of class, to provide the campers every opportunity to acquire new water skills. Their dedication is a credit to both themselves and Camp Waupaca and helped keep this program one of the safest in the country.

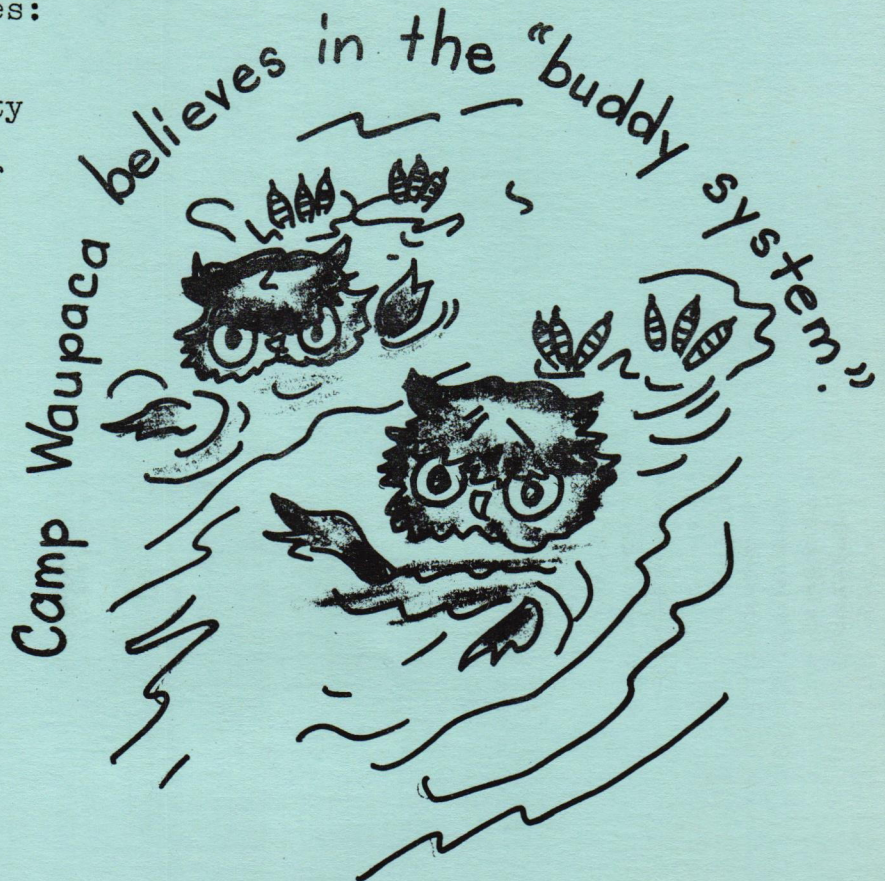

The swim classes occupied a tremendous amount of time as all boys in cabins 1-15 were required to attend classes. Thus the swim staff had a heavy load everyday, Monday through Saturday. As usual, the courses offered were designed and approved by the American Red Cross.

All boys, before using the waterfront, were given swim checks to determine their swimming ability. Depending on their abilities, they were limited to particular swimming areas. All boys were also required to take the Basic Water Safety Course, which is designed to help even non-swimmers become safe around water. This course was followed by individual swimming evaluations. On this basis, each swimmer was assigned to one of the following classes: Beginner, Advanced Beginner, Intermediate, Swimmer, Basic Rescue, or Advanced Swimmer.

The following boys received awards in one or more of the following categories:

TENNIS

The tennis program at Camp Waupaca this year provided fun and competition for everyone involved. The kids participated in lessons and class tournaments, and the result was a lot of better tennis players.

The first four weekers included names like Larry Miller, who captured two class tournaments; Steve Rissman, who came out on top on one; and Doug "Smoose" Weinberg and David Lewis, who never got a chance to play the championship match in their tournament. Also playing very well in these tournaments were Jeremy Baskin, Steve Diamond, Jim Carnow, Jeff Warman, Richard Miller, Scott Gould, and David Gershbein, who was a real "dollar."

The younger players who saw great improvement include Eric Kaplan, Phillip Goldman, Jon Myers, Howard Fishbein, Lee Roth, Joel Feinstein, Robert Pomper, Keith Ross, and, especially, Mike Savin.

In the second four weeks, a new batch of aspiring tennis players came along, and their progress was just as fast as the others had been.

Scott Loochtan was the winner of one of the tournaments. Brian Fishman, Norman Byster, David Glick, "Puppy dog eyes" Mark Kreger, and Mike Fine also played very well in that one.

Among the older players, Aric Simons, Darryl Marcus, Pete Vogel, Aram Adler, Gary Rosengarten, Lee Multack, Ross Weisman, and Andy Sirota showed promise as excellent tennis players.

The boys in both sessions made great progress throughout the summer, and we're sure it made them just as happy as it did their instructors.

TRACK

There were two classes of track and field this summer. In both there were promising young athletes. During the first four weeks we covered the long jump which Pete Snyder, Sy Sussman and Mike Mandell mastered. The shot put was favorites to David Gershbein and Rick Sargis. High jump and discus were also covered.

During the course, we tried to stress running, starting form, and endurance. These are the keys to being a good runner. It led up to a run to Rural and back, a distance of about a mile and a half. All the boys fared very well.

WATERSKIING

Stratton Lake has always meant peaceful fishing, swimming, and boating. For the '77 waterskiers, the lake often took on a new form. The beginning skiers saw the lake as a strange new experience; the lake was a creature constantly prepared to engulf them with the smallest error in form--a loss of balance, an unforeseen wave, a slack rope. With practice, these beginners conquered Stratton:

Ricky Cohen
Eric Rooth
Bill Shayman
Joey Gan
Robert Pomper

Joel Feinstein
Mike Greenberg
Aaron Sussman
Andy Slavitt
Richard Miller

Ronnie Goldberg
Richard Price
Andy Much
Eric Kaplan

For the more experienced, the ski and the lake often clashed. Who could forget the Olympic Ski Competition with Andy Sirota, Mike Hollobow, and Mike Denenberg winning medals? Remember Aram Adler's and Ross Weisman's cuts? Always exciting was Jon Juron's exposé. Trick skis and the zip sled always offered additional challenge.

Even the staff discovered the thrill of skiing. Ken Robbins, Paul Goldstine, Paul Rosengarten, John Schmitt, Pete Jones, and Paul Prale all tried to flaunt their talents on wood.

By the end of summer, the campers had had a ball skiing in class regularly, during the Blue and White War, and in the six ski trips to Pine Lake near camp. The trips allowed almost unlimited skiing along with campfires and stories.

Skiing was popular this summer because it afforded a never-ending battle for perfection and a load of fun.

WRESTLING

Wrestling is a sport of intense concentration, agility, and endurance. During the course of the summer, we tried to teach the basic fundamentals. Once the campers became effective in these basics, the rest came easily.

Some of the boys showed great natural talent. I feel that Steve Rissman, assistant Dan Ash, and Eric Rooth showed the greatest desire to perform. Someday, if they follow it through, they will be tops in wrestling. Other members of the wrestling class were: Mario Rawson, Kevin Schulman, Lee Multack, Dan Shaffer, Mike Roskin, and Jeff Lowenthal. Also participating were: David Euer, Keith Ross, Neil Ornoff, Charlie Lissner, Mark Sternberg, and Bryan Friedman.

WEIGHT TRAINING

In any weight training course, eight weeks is never long enough to fulfill all the goals involved with weight lifting. The things we tried to stress were: proper forms for lifting weights, repetitions, different lifts, and warm-ups.

If the boys have learned some techniques, we have accomplished our goal.

The class consisted of: Dan Shaffer, assistant; Charlie Lissner; Ross Lipman; Lee Multack; Rich Sklare; Ross Weisman; Greg Waxman; and Mark Bernstein.
