

CLASSES

RIDING

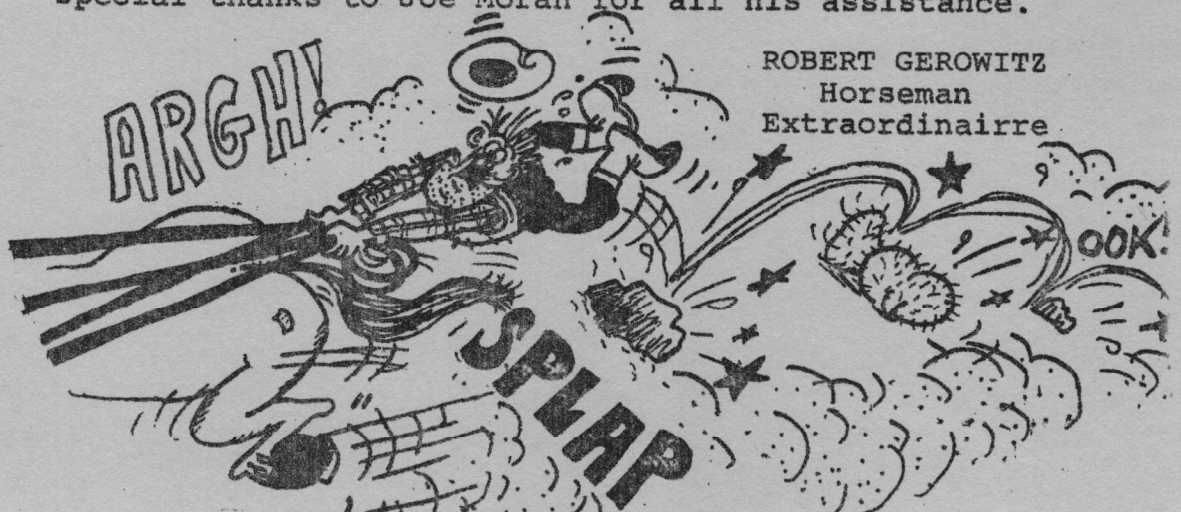

It has been said that the proper training of a young horseman is an art. It was the philosophy of this year's Instructional Riding department that riding is much more than kicking a horse and holding on. It was for this reason that both the advanced and beginning classes had discussions concerning the parts of the horse's body, grooming and feeding, learning about the saddles and bridles and what could be termed "horse sense," or how a horse thinks with and without a human on its back.

It is of course saddle time that develops the young rider into a horseman more than anything else. At the Black Saddle Riding Stables all of the paths branched off the main trail. We tried to take a different path each day even when a washout closed the back trails. It was not unusual to spot deer through the woods or a hawk soaring above us.

It wasn't long before many of the riders could tell the difference between a walk, canter, trot, and gallop. Additional training prepared them for their first challenge: bareback riding.

The first time riders were exposed to bareback came the day of the overnighiter. Joel Feinstein, Eric Kaplan, Jeff Rissman, Kip Poncher, Art Reinstein, Perry Goldberg, Greg Richman, Scott Dimond, Keith Kundert, Barry Schecter, Joe Moran and I all rode bareback to the farthest trails. Our gear was awaiting us and our guides, Todd, Nancy & Dianna left with the horses as we set up camp. Our dinner consisted of Shish Kabob and Andrea Wanty's special baked potatoes. We sang with Joe and told ghost stories around the campfire. With the stars twinkling overhead the Camp Waupaca cowboys bedded down for the night.

As the summer drew to a close all riders felt a sense of accomplishment for there were few beginners now--we were all horsemen. This year's Golden Horseshoe award for the most improved rider goes to Perry Goldberg, and for best horsemen the award goes to Eric Kaplan & Joel Feinstein. My special thanks to Joe Moran for all his assistance.

RIFLERY

There was a new look to our rifle range this year. A new and improved weather canopy was made for the range to replace the one that stood for nearly twenty years at camp. We also had new & improved target holders and large easy to read numbers on each target holder. Another new area was the shotgun section for skeet shooting and a BB gun range. So as the year began all we needed was new and improved shooters. We got 'em! Yep!

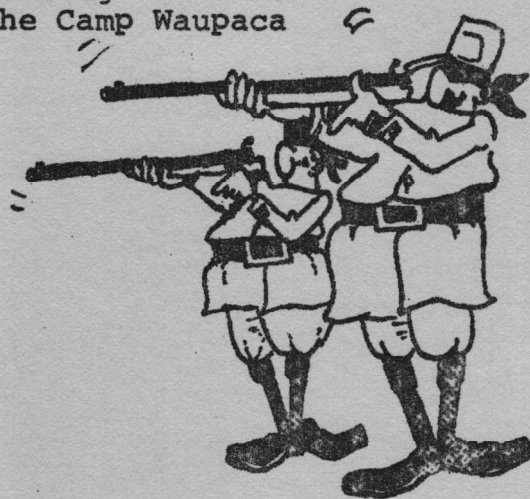

The first week of camp Phil Goldberg and Wayne Towne worked hard to teach safety rules and proper shooting positions. We took a lot of time to make sure everyone knew the proper way to shoot a rifle. In short, we worked out the rust from the old campers and oiled up the new campers as an introduction to a life-long sport.

By the end of the second week things were going smoothly and campers began winning awards. The first ones to earn their pro-marksman awards were David Euer, Jeff Veltman, Barry Schechter, Ofer Sharon, and Cole Leavitt. Jeff Rissman shot a season high of 47 points prone. Then came a newcomer, Steve Kramer, who tied the old camper record of 48 points. But Steve was not content to let it stop there. He went on to win pro-marksman, marksman, marksman first class, and sharpshooter in the first two weeks. Very few shooters have done this. Steve did what it takes most shooters two or more seasons to do in only two short weeks.

In the third week of camp Karamath Khan would not be outdone. He won his pro-marksman, marksman, marksman first class and sharpshooter. Then to top it all off he shot a moving target by downing a clay pigeon; and this was done on the same day as he completed his sharpshooter!

Other award winners the third week were Perry Goldberg and Paul Chanan, pro-marksman with Jon Hellerman winning his marksman, first-class.

The fourth week had only begun when Greg Richman outdid everyone when he won marksman, marksman first class, sharpshooter AND Bar One. Greg was also selected to be the captain of the Camp Waupaca Junior team Rifle Squad.

The fourth week of camp also saw our rifle teams off to the bi meet at Camp Micquano. The meet was close but both teams came home victorius. Winning on the junior team was:

Greg Richman	39,31	Total:70
Cole Leavitt	9,61	Total:70
Perry Goldberg	31,43	Total:74
Keith Kundert	31,19	Total:50
Bobby Frank	54,39	Total:93
S. Silverman	14,15	Total:29

Winning on the senior team was:

Greg Berke	70,60	Total:130
Steve Kramer	87.83	Total:170
Karamath Khan	73,82	Total:155
Jeff Rissman	95,95	Total:190
Neil Ornoff	83,60	Total:143
Todd Laff	43,54	Total: 97

At the end of the fourth week the winners of the club championship medals were determined. Bob Frank won for the Junior Division and Jeff Rissman was the winner for the Senior Division. These medals were awarded at the final banquet. The medals are awarded by the National Rifle Association (NRA) and only one may be awarded to an individual. The winner's name and address are recorded by the NRA in Washington, D.C.

The largest list of awards comes from the fourth week. Winners of the pro-marksman awards were: David Buyer, Paul Chanan, Dave Simon, Jeff Shapiro. Marksmen were Jeff Veltman, Jeff Spagat, Jason More, Eric Gould, Perry Goldberg, Bobby Frank, and Barry Schechter. Marksmen first-class were: Davis Euer, Jon Hellerman, and Cole Leavitt. Sharpshooters were Jeff Bornstein and Mike Stern.

The fifth week brought in a new troop of riflemen and good shots they were indeed! We expanded the department to four classes a day every day and the campers really made their rifles smoke. On the following page is the list of the awards each camper who took riflery received.

SKIING

This year's waterskiing program had another great season and, as usual, one the most popular activity at camp. Warm, sunny Waupaca weather certainly helped in promoting this refreshing sport. Boys who learned to ski for the first time on spring-fed Lake Stratton this year were:

Jim Feinstein
Robert Master
Matt Richmond
Alan Myers
Rick Shamberg
Gregg Shamberg
Steve Wanty
Mike Ash
Steve Christenholtz
Mike Hochman
Cole Leavitt
Kevin Ruby
Gary Schotz
Jeff Zeinfeld
Gary Korub
Greg Pritikin
Paul Chanan
Brian Kite
Josh Ring

Campers were encouraged to increase their skills and many boys were very successful trying flying dock starts, shallow water beach starts, and slalom skiing. Boys who showed great improvement this year and increased skills were:

Cole Leavitt
Jeff Zeinfeld
Steve Master
Marc Roskin
Scott Silverman
Jeff Spagat
Rick Garfinkle
Neil Ornoff
David Goldman
Perry Goldberg
Greg Richman
Larry S. Kirsch
Art Reinstein

This year saw the inception of the first Water Ski Show. This occurred during the first four weeks and included triple skiing by Greg Berke, Ricky Goldman, Jon Shulman, David Alpert, Eric Kaplan, and Karamath Khan. A pyramid with Ricky Garfinkle on the top was the high point of the show.

Barefoot waterskiing or "footin," increased in popularity this year. This year's newcomers included Jeff Pierce, Steve Stoltz and Mike Chavin who joined the resident pros Gordy Adams and John Schmitt to make it the only camp "in North America where all the water-skiing staff barefoot!" Jeff Rissman, Greg Berke, Jon Shulman, and Rick Roskin took high honors by being the only campers this year to barefoot. All skiers look forward to next year when they can increase their talents on skis.

SWIMMING

The waterfront was one of the busiest areas of camp. It includes fishing, boating, waterskiing and both free and instructional swimming. Thus each boy at camp had at least one or two contacts with the waterfront area and its staff.

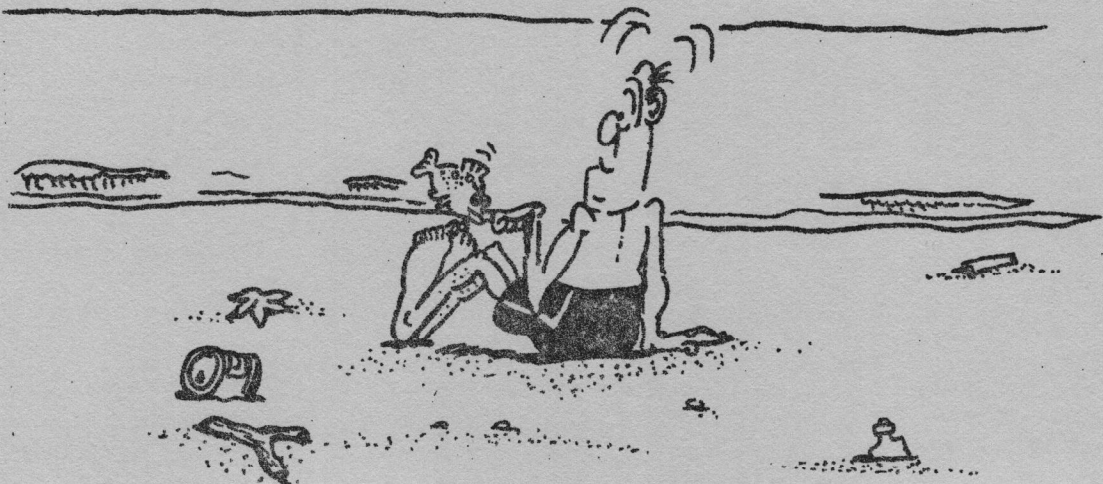

No sooner than the boys had arrived in camp and had their trunks unpacked than they were instructed to go to the waterfront swimming area where each camper's swimming ability was individually evaluated and he was placed in one of the following classes: Basic Water Safety, Beginner, Advanced Beginner, Intermediate, Swimmer, or Junior Life Saver, (Basic Rescue and Water Safety).

Every camper in cabins 1-15 attended daily classes in swimming. Then those who desired, signed up for classes in waterskiing and boating. Fishing was done on a personal basis during free time.

The waterfront was extremely busy during the last four weeks as the temperatures soared higher dispelling any remembrance of Chicago's Blizzard of 1979. Campers and staff alike cooled off in Little Lake Stratton as they frolicked and swam in the deliciously cool, spring-fed waters.

During free time everyone enjoyed the equipment down at the waterfront: The slide in the swim area, innertubes in the beginners area, plastic jugs, spoons, cups, and plenty of imagination on the beach, as castles and forts were designed and created in the sand. Playaks, canoes, sailboats, rowboats, and the paddleboat were all utilized to the fullest. Everyone who requested it received a ride in one of the two powerful ski boats as the lake OD toured both little lake and bigger Lake Stratton. Who can forget Manny's surprise visits on a hot day, chicken fights, or that greased watermelon?

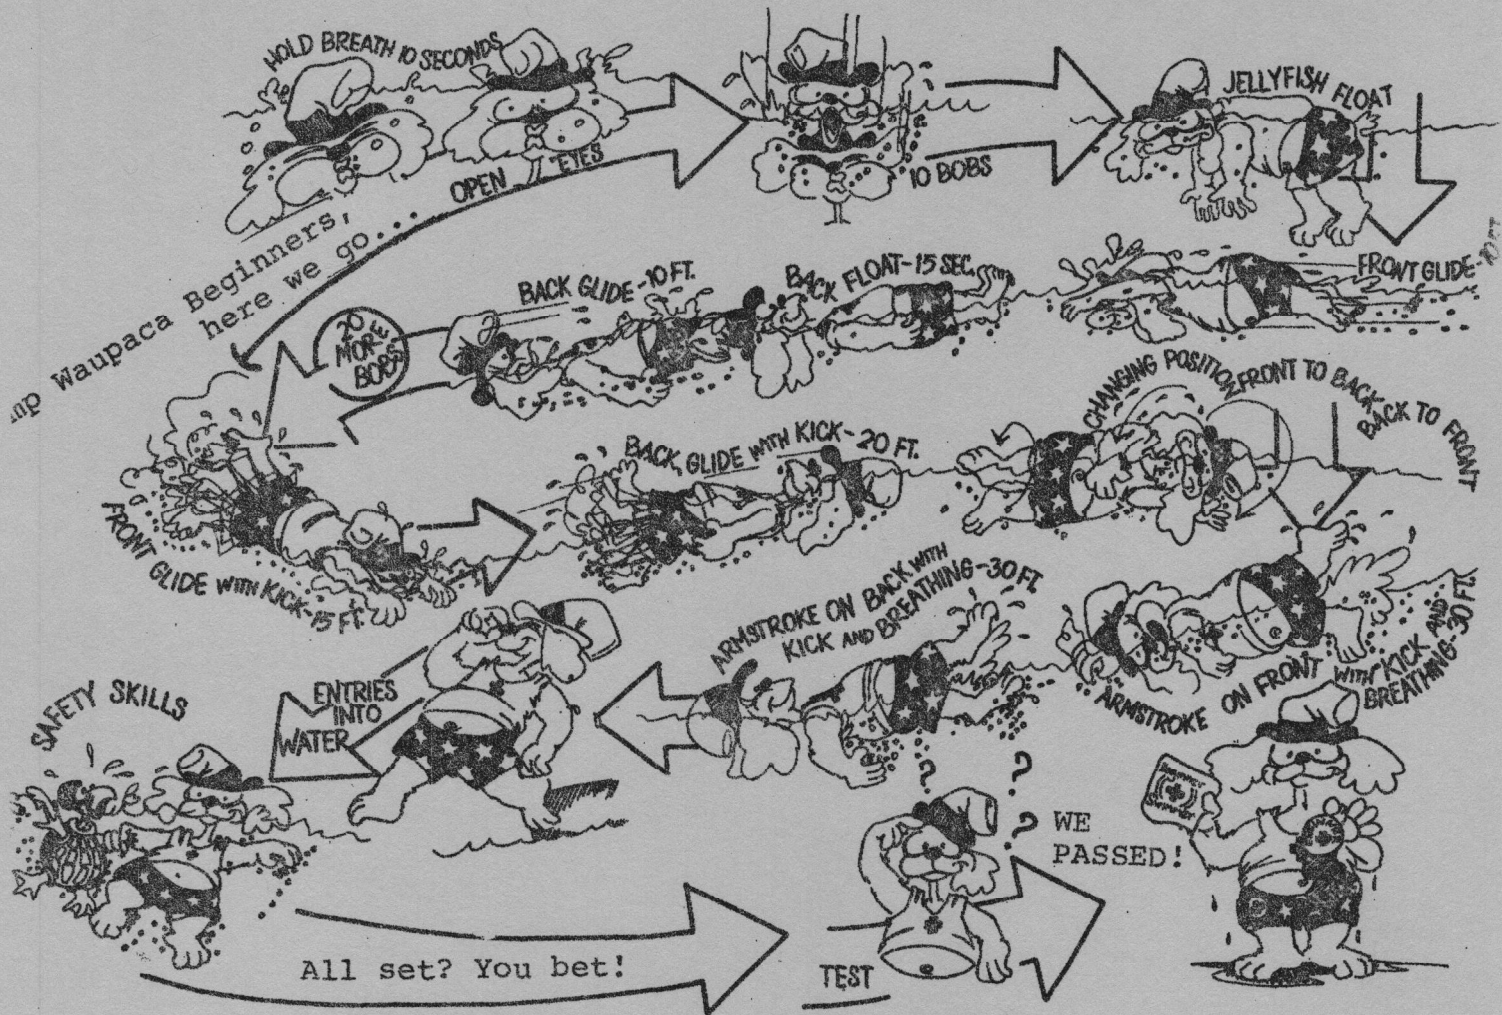

Many campers found enough energy, and a willing counsellor to row besides them, and swam "lakers". A laker consisted of swimming the width of Little Lake Stratton which was nearly $\frac{1}{2}$ mile. Some boys swam two or more in a row which takes a great deal of stamina. On the following page is a list of the campers who swam lakers and the number they achieved during the summer.

The following boys have passed the American Red Cross swimming skills as indicated.

ADVANCED BEGINNER SKILLS

To pass swimmers had to demonstrate reasonable aptitude in rhythmic breathing, survival floating, (2 minutes), treading water, (30 seconds) & changing positions, elementary backstroke, (25 yards), Crawl stroke, (25 yards), diving and unerwater swimming, (15 feet), use of personal flotation device, safety & rescue, first combined skills, second combined skills.

David Kramer, Ofer Sharon, Mike Fine, Steve Wanty, Trevor Vaithianathan.

INTERMEDIATE SKILLS

To pass intermediate swimming, campers had to do the following: scissors kick, (20 yards), crawl kick, (20 yards) breast stroke kick, (20 yards), side stroke arms, (10 yards), crawl stroke arms, (10 yards), breast stroke arms, (10 yards), elementary back stroke (50 yards), elementary back stroke arms (10 yards) selected stroke, (100 yards), survival float (5 min.), treading water, (one minute), floating (1 minute), underwater swimming (15 feet), standing front dive, rescue skills, and five minute swim.

SWIMMERS SKILLS

Campers had to demonstrate the following difficult requirements to be classified as swimmers: Breast stroke (100 yards) side stroke, (100 yards), crawl stroke, (100 yards), back crawl, (50 yards), swimming on back, (legs only--50 yards) front turn, back turn, side turn, surface dive, underwater swim, (20 feet), disrobing, floating with clothes, (5 minutes), long shallow dive, running front dive, ten minute swim.

Joel Feinstein, Adam Fleischer, Dan Greenstein,
Aaron Sussman, Jeff Zeinfeld

Those boys who swam Lakers are listed below and the number they achieved:

Many thanks to all the campers for their help in keeping the waterfront area clean and for their cooperation in following the rules and regulations that are necessary to keep the waterfron a safe and fun place.

Thanks to all the instructors and assistants who worked so tirelessly to teach the campers their swimming skills. Each of you did your best and I thank you for a job well done.

TENNIS

Camp Waupaca's tennis program was simple, but educational to all campers. There were no actual lessons given to the group leaving the time to be spent on individual assistance to many campers.

During class campers played sets against other campers to improve their strokes and ball judgement. Basic game strategy was introduced briefly and tournaments held during the end of the first four weeks. The winners of the Senior division were Dan Vishny, Mike Shapiro, and Mike Hollobow. These boys were fine players and dominated the tournament. The Junior Division winners were Steve Master and Ronnie Levinson.

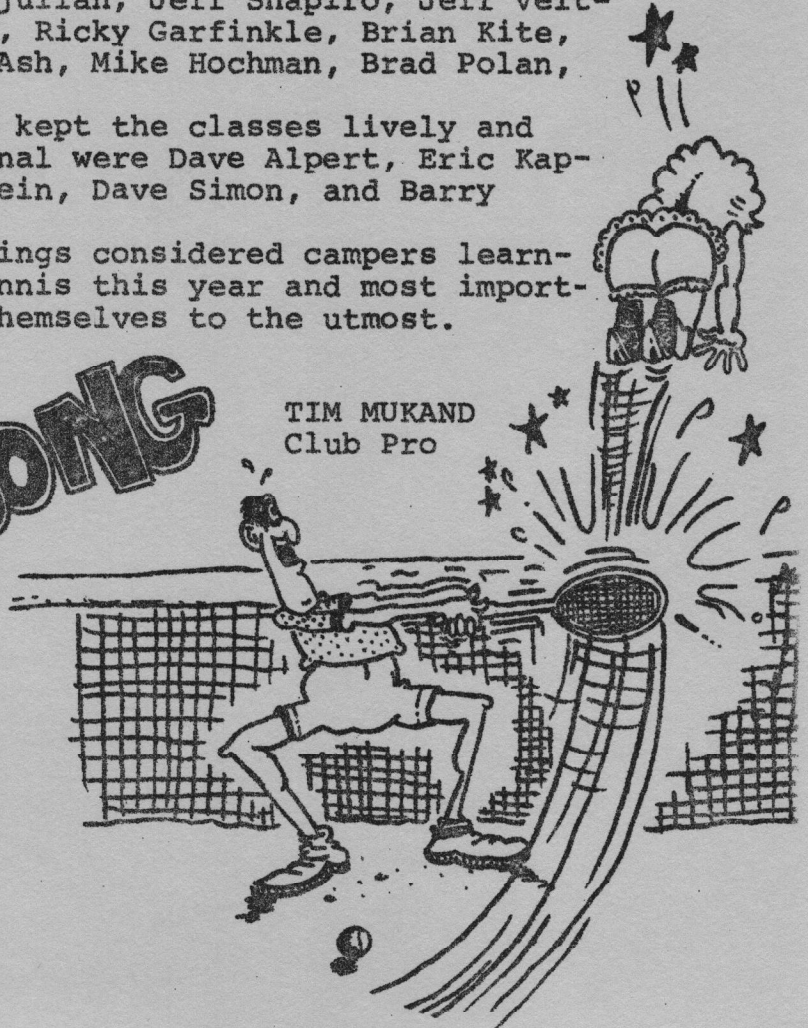

Campers who showed tremendous improvement were Jay Goldstein, Josh Myers, Steve Master, Mike Hochman, Gary Schotz, Jason More, Donnie Schwartz and Dan Greenstein. A great majority of the campers enjoyed learning the fundamentals like Jackie Sirajullah, Jeff Shapiro, Jeff Veltman, David Simon, Ricky Garfinkle, Brian Kite, Dave Pine, Mike Ash, Mike Hochman, Brad Polan, & Mike Stern.

Campers who kept the classes lively and sometimes emotional were Dave Alpert, Eric Kaplan, Jeff Bornstein, Dave Simon, and Barry Schecter.

With all things considered campers learned more about tennis this year and most importantly, enjoyed themselves to the utmost.

TRACK

The first four weeks of track consisted of long distance running and the elements necessary to attain enough stamina to run the $1\frac{1}{2}$ to $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles each class day. Karamath Khan was outstanding in utilizing these elements and putting them to use. Karamath, Dan Vishny, and Shawn Lieber ran $4\frac{1}{2}$ miles one class day. Considering the period was no longer than forty minutes this was quite a feat for beginner marathon runners.

Other runners who improved greatly over the four weeks were Dave Pine, Josh Greenstein, and David Euer. Eliot Abt would get the award for the most improved runner. His attempts to keep up the pace earn him the title, Big El, the mighty marathoner.

Other staff ran or jogged frequently. Rick Poole and Brian Hale headed up the Hiway 22 Jog Squad and were joined occasionally by Todd Laff, Mike Hollobow, Paul Chanan, Rob Gerowitz, and David Goldman.

WRESTLING

By working on strength, flexibility, and basic moves we helped beginner wrestlers get an idea of what grappling is all about. The boys who had some wrestling experience helped greatly in teaching the others while they improved and sharpened their own skills.

Through the experience all boys gained a better attitude and I know that many have the potential of being good wrestlers in High School.

The most outstanding wrestlers were Jeff Warman, Bill Shayman, David Goldman, Josh Myers, and Ricky Garfinkle. Other boys who improved greatly were John Hellerman, David Pine, Steve Wanty, Sy Sussman, Phil Telpner, Rick Friedman, Ken Kramer, Cole Leavitt, Jon Shulman, Karamath Khan, Larry J. Kirsch, Ron Levinson, and Jason More.

Steve Wanty was the most improved wrestler of the summer. He gets the Full Nelson Honors. Good work for all the grapplers of 1979.
