Cabins

Your cabin. It is where you spent most of your time while at camp. It is where you sleep, awake, dress, cleanup, and sometimes fool around. It is where your counsellors nag at you to clean up that last dust pile in the corner. It is where you grab your mit and run out to a competition game. It is the place where late at night you hear ghost stories and think about "Thump Drag." It is a place where you decide what activity to do on Cabin Night; should we sink the canoes or cause trouble in the Rec Hall? It is where you get mail and receive it. And of course it is where you hide those little goodies you get in the care packages from home. It is where you keep your magazines--of all kinds; some of which the counsellors take to study further. It is HOME for four or eight weeks. A place to live.

On the following pages are articles written by the campers who lived in these cabins. It is in their own words about what they did or experienced. The names they had for each other; hopefully all in fun. These are the memories of the friends you made and of all the good times you had. Some of these friends you make at camp can remain friends all of your life. Write to them. See them once in a while. Believe me, it is worth it. You will find cabin lists also. See if you can match the picture with the names. Write your counsellor during the winter. See what he does for a real job or in school. Have fun.

CABIN ONE

This is our autobiography. Brad Belden is good at sports; a great athlete. Benjie Grais always gets into waterfights, pillowfights, and loves sports. Scott Levine likes to entertain us with his dancing. Shelly Gelbar dislikes sports but is always smiling. Robby Footlik is always asking for things from his top shelves. Jon Goldfine tells good jokes and knows the words to every song in the top 40. Brian McCarrall loves to get dirty and make up games with broken rakes and pieces of wood. Mike Margolese loves soccer and pillowfights, reads a lot. Jeremy Cooper likes waterskiing was quiet during the first four but now is a little louder. During the first four weeks we had Gabe Goodman and Dan Oseran. They were good friends and both liked computers and were referees for our pillowfights.

Cliff and Phil were our counsellor. Cliff taught waterskiing and called us moppetts. Phil taught photography and had big arms.

CABIN TWO

In the first four we had a great time! Adam Wolff always used to crack his knuckles half way. Jason Smith was always switching bunks. Harold Alterson was always in the computer room or in the bus. Jess (Hash Brown) was always amusing the cabin. Gregg Feinstein used to go fishing all the time. Jeff Levine, was always writing letters to his girlfriends. Jamie Rabinowitz loved to read comic books. The first four weeks Cabin Two furnished loud music to the camp with the aid of four boom boxes, thus the cabin was rarely quiet.

On our night into town we visited the twists and turns of the waterslide. After working up a mighty appetite, we went to the pizza parlor and stuffed ourselves. Next it was on to the Waupaca River to walk on the rocks. Finally we made our way to Dairy Queen to devour mounds of ice cream.

The arrival of our seven new campers for the 2nd four weeks quickly filled the cabin to its rafters. An aura of appreciation was apparent.

(Cabin Two)

It was time for solidifying old friendships while at the same time, venturing out to make new friends. The new Campers were Andy Kaplan, Jeff Strelitz, Marc Hirsch, Paul Stork, Howard Finfer, David Hoke, Eric Waxman. We went into town and saw Return of the Jedi, had fantastic pizza and Dairy Queen again.

As the weeks flew by an understanding was reached by the campers in cabin 2. Each learned how to respect each other as well as other people. As the four weeks expired a certain sadness developed throughout the cabin.

Each knew that the friendships that they had worked so hard to make were coming to an end. But this sadness quickly turned to anxious optimism as the campers knew these friendships would be reinstated next summer.

CABIN THREE

Cabin Three had a great four weeks with Brian Shapiro, Jeremy Sorkin, Brian Rosen, Chris Thake Ben Frank, Charlie Friedberg, Gary Alterson, John Riff CIT, Dave Reinstein CIT, and Matt Harmsen and Steve Berkhardt as counsellors. Whenever "that" song came on it was time for disco wrestling. One morning Jeremy woke up on the floor still on his mattress and his bed was still made. It wouldn't have happened except that John's bed wouldn't fit out the door, and Shapiroman rolled over at the wrong time. It is time for bed but I have a better idea: Let's pile on Dave!

On the Crystal River Trip we had a lot of fun under the falls, canoeing, and trying to hang on to the rope. Ben sure looked like he was having a good time doing the dog paddle against the current. Who can forget the day I was supposed to dress up as a preppie, but I forgot till the last minute. Shapiroman, Brian Rosen, and Charlie saved me and made me a pretty convincing costume. One of our finest moments was our end of camp party. Matt pretended he forgot the pizzas. Then he brought them in and we stuffed ourselves. Cabin three was a great cabin with a great bunch of campers. Hope to see all of us again next year. Till next year, watch out for high winds!! And don't get too close to the "edge."

CABIN FOUR

Cabin Four opened up the second four weeks with ten campers. A lot of people knew each other before they arrived. After the first day everyone pretty well knew each other. Our counsellors were Page Buchanan and Bob Crego. Most people liked either mini-bikes or water-skiing. Everyone liked Gold Rush Day. Our booth was the basketball sponge toss. If you made two out of three baskets, you got to throw a sponge at Page or another counsellor.

We had a great baseball team. We beat Cabins 7 & 8 and tied 10 & 11. The people in the cabin were Dave Eggenr, who loves mini-bikes, Scott Eggener, Dave's cousin, Adam Chalmers and Ian Rothenberg, the tennis pros, Eric Fields the computer brain, Mike Mazursky, the 3rd baseman, Chuck Barsky the power hitter, Jason Blake who was good at rugby, Eric Schneider who is great at riflery, and Matt Belden who loves waterskiing. See you all next summer.

CABIN SIX

Cabin Six started out the first four weeks well with our counsellors, Dave Greathouse and Bryan Garness, and Dale "disc drive" Burmester. All the counsellors were into computers. Now for the kids. Chad Rosenberg was a tennis fanatic; so much so he had little time for cleanup. Ed Schotz could run faster than Speedy Gonzales. Corey Fisher and Howie Fleisher (flasher) were our resident relative. They were cousins that stuck together.

All the guys adjusted to their new surroundings very quickly. Soon we found ourselves floating down the Crystal River, Jon Gordon had a little trouble paddling so we put him at the front of the pack and pushed him down the river. A couple of days later we went out for Cabin nite. We went to the waterslide, then out
