

(Cabin 15)

Let us not forget Seth "Sleep talking, Raisin walking" Kramer who said something new in his sleep every night. Last but not least is our one and only Brian "Write on the walls" Rosenberg, he was also famous for having a vast collection of rock tapes from America Poland, and Columbia. Now it is time to get to the nitty gritty. The counsellors. Our two counsellors were pretty good. Todd "Goodie Goodie" Goers who always obeyed camp rules, and other counsellor Rick "Camp Stud" Poole who played strange and enjoyable music at night. Before we end up talking about the first four weeks we must mention an event known as the high winds. The winds came through camp and plant canoes in the trees.

On the next four weeks. Our new campers arrived at camp at 12:30 pm. Our cabin was the proud recipient of four new recruits: Judd Mr. Athlete Rosenberg, this is a man who can stand or fall with the best of them. David "Kit Kat" Kitzes a man who is known to have swallowed 50 kit kats in one hour setting a new record. Steve "Tough guy, get a haircut" Blevit was also seen slithering into the cabin that fateful day. The last new camper was Gregg "Home Run" Silverman who always got to first base.

Our cabin mates had many activities together. During the middle of the four weeks, three fourths of the cabin went to see the Jedi movie as Cabin night. One of the most fun things we did was go to the falls and go under the air pocket. As you can see we had a great year and we hope to see each other next year. Sooolong....

THE CIT CITY

The CIT Village, no I'd better call it a city, what can we say other than it was exciting, fun, wierd, interesting, original. The veterans of the City were the eight weekers and went through everything so we'll start with them. My first victim is myself, and we all know my nicknames so I won't discuss them or where they came from. But all I can say is that it was a great year. (Ed. note: When we could get him out of bed or to stop snoring!) Secondly is Steve Wanty our barefooter, other than me. But I must admit, he was better than me. Now we come to Mitch Bass, or should I say "Grumpy". We were lucky to get a smile out of him once a day but he did have a sense of humor. What about Steve Ellis. Let us call him Rock TALKER. We loved his letter tape, in which his family wanted a letter. Now for David Euer. His favorite sentence was "Come on, you, I'm gonna woup ya." Then there is Perry "Squeaky" Cooper, who said, "Have you gone through the waterfalls yet?" Perry was our City's computer whiz. Done with eight weekers. Now for the first four weekers. My victim is Ronnie "Deuce deuce, da deuce" Levinson. What can we say about this New York loudmouth? Now on to Bryan "pyro" Mallin. He loved cabin nights as we had fires. Now for our city skier, Andrew Costello, the man most likely to be in the Tommy Bartlett Water Show. If there is one thing we can say about Scott Leva it would be "Don't you feel good about 7 UP Ha ha ha." What about Adam Fishman, our torch man. Now for our own City angel, Brian Cole. Always calm and never throwing tantrums. What about Gary "streaker" Schotz. As a final salute to Gary, "Bruce Lee, patron saint of self defence."

Now on to the infamous second four weekers. Gary "lets beat em up" Nudelman was our city's godfather. We did have an election and the Mayor was nearly assassinated. What about Brett Forrest, the all American sportsman; you've got to get better at tennis. Now for the final CIT, Scott "Wheezer" Kravitz. He and his allergies kept us amused for hours.

And what about our counsellors who held their own during it all. Joe Landusky, Dale Burmester and especilall Paul "Froggie" Warshauer. Big thanks to them all.

And to our frequent visitor, Brian Rosenberg. You might call him a temporary citizen, and Mike Blevit who often visited us during our campfires.

Who could forget our canoe trips down the river, the falls, all those great times in town, and in Stevens Point, the Red Owl and our spending limits, setting up the mess hall for movies, and kitchen late at night. Monopoly games when it rained, and always a great amount of loud music. I'm finally done so all I have to say is that it has been a great year and I'm looking forward to the years ahead.
