

CABIN ELEVEN

On June 17 we rolled into Camp Waupaca and went right to Cabin 11. We have to go down in history as having the fewest campers; there were only four! They were Eric "Twiggy" Fine, Bruce "Karate" Fisher, Alex "Mr. Athlete" Lurie, and Ben "Porcupine" Marcus (haircut). Our two counsellors were the best, Ron Lavine and Tom "M.D.U." Schneider. Around the end of the 3rd week we aquired a new counsellor, Rob "No-Neck" Everman. We had some great times. Some were the trip to town, campfires, and gang wrestling our three unsuspecting counsellors. (Sorry guys). The first four weeks were fun--we will never forget them.

It was a warm afternoon when the three sleek Greyhound buses rolled down the long, rocky camp path. These three buses brought an entirely new Cabin 11. We had a fantastic group of campers for the second four weeks. We had a new counsellor, Ray Krysh, and Cabin CIT, Scott Silverman. We had Ian Rothenberg, Mike Mazursky, David Eggener, Scott Eggener, (yes they are related) Eric Fields, Craig Grabiner, Eric Schneider, Lenny Sacchitello, and Jason Blake as our new bunch of inmates. We had no idea what the following month was to bring. We settled in, unpacked and learned how to make hospital corners. Poker was a main pastime. We all remember Scott's expression when he found the whole cabin sitting on the floor playing poker with Ron dealing. Every evening Ron had a great tape or story or game for us to listen to or play. Cabin nights were fantastic, too. When we went to town, we had a great time. We went bowling, miniature golfing, went to JR's Petting Zoo where we saw Lilly, the Bengal Tiger, a softball game, and ate pizza. We had a very athletic cabin. We challenged Cabin 10 and easily claimed victory. We can't forget our CITs cold showers. We had a great summer thanks to Ron, Ray, and Scott.

CABIN 14

Well, the first four weeks went by fast and Cabin 14 felt it as kind of a front runner cabin that others would look up to. Our cool counsellors were Dave "Kinger" King, and Craig "Big Guy" Zandi. As for the campers, we consisted of Bobby Pine who was great at basketball and breakdancing, Jared Cohler who was our cabin headbanger, Stuart Goldman who was quite a jocular fellow and complimented everything, Mr. G. Q. Scott Siegal who was a great skier and tennis player. As for the eight weekers there's Eric Goldstein who's great at Rugby and fast as a silver bullet, and myself, Scott Rubin, I guess I am an expert at riflery and a good golfer. Our cabin was the best at cabin reports and outstanding at athletics. We had alot of great times, for instance, the Crystal River trip, the time Jared and Craig won their tennis match, our Green Berets playing Capture the Flag and arriving too late, the Whiners, breakdancing, Duran Duran, heap food, and Stuart's jocular moments. Our last night of the first four weeks was exciting in a sence with toothpaste, shampoo. Bobby attacked Jared and Stuart while Scott Siegal was asleep and Eric and I watched. The four weekers packed up and we said goodbye. Everyone was proud to be in Cabin 14.

The second four weeks was made up of party animals and people who love socials and girls. The campers were Brett Robinson who was a world class swimmer, Steve Sime, a great baseball player, Steve Goldberg, who was a great swimmer. Lee Eisner liked to throw horse-shoes. Steve Edelman who loves Springman and is a great flag pullerupper. Ben Marcus and Mike Levinson were computer brains, and Eric and Scott who were the eight weekers. Some fun things we did were to go to town, going on a campout where we got to meet some exotic girls, and our Early Bird Trip. Our Gold Rush booth this year was a flop but the Moonwalk we attempted to do turned into a wheelbarrow ride. But all in all we had fun time doing it. Our two counsellors were Dave "Chick-alert" King, and Billy "The Inspector General" Abeyta. 14 was a fun number and a fun cabin this year.

CABIN FIFTEEN

Well, the first four weeks have come and gone. We have learned several things: Sportsmanship, leadership, and the most important, fun!

The following are the campers for the first four weeks: 1st a strong, intelligent, strong guy named Howie Statland. He plans to become a Junior counsellor, and after that become a rich and famous baseball player. Then there is Paul Frank who lived on his bottom bunk most of the day and enjoyed Waterskiing most of all. He plans to come here until he is a Cabin CIT then he has ambition to be a sanitation engineer. Then we have strong, skinny, big armed Sam Frank who plans to come back here three or four more years then he plans to be a hermit and live in a hole. Adam Goldstein does not know how long he will return for. His specialties are bed making, and shelf straightening and in the future he plans to become a butler. Last but not least is Kevin Hoffman who towered over everyone else. In the future Kevin plans to become the world's record holder for consecutive hours of sleeping. Then we have the 8 weekers which included Mike Levinson, Mike Jelinek, and Eric Genin. Last but not least there are our counsellors Kevin Finnegan. He is one of the bigger, stronger more studliyer counsellors. He has this special talent to meditate every once in a while. Also he lifts weights to improve his small and weak muscles. Also Todd Goers who thinks he's the most awesome tennis player on the face of the earth. With his 480 mile per hour serve, he goes through tennis racquets like McEnroe throws temper tantrums! Also he has this thing about his bed. He always says, "Golly gee, guys, don' sit on my bed. This summer has been our best summer ever.

The second four weekers we had loads of excitement. We had nicknames. Erin "Green Stream" Green, Brian "Pinner" Pinsky, Marty "Ice Cream Cone" Cless, Michael "The Ratt" Machat, Andy "Hermit" Herman, Jason "Coughman" Kaufman, Eric "Come ON" Genin, Brian "Moose" Fields, and our saluter, Mike "Jelinquent" Jelinek, and Kevin "Puffed up Suntan" Finnegan, and Todd "Jo Tennis Player" Goers. Our whole cabin was a bunch of troublemakers (ha), But don't get us wrong, Brian Fields, Jason Kaufman and Mike Jelinek acted like angels. Brian says "Everyone likes me" Jason said "I hate it when Andy picked on me." and Mike said "Everyone blames me." Cabin nightwas great for us. Brian Pinsky and Erin Greene had fun wasting a whole pizza and eating everyone elses and Eric Genin made a good attempt at talking to a girl. Gold Rush was a grweat experience for us. Yes, Nam Land was a good idea at the time. We wish we could stay longer at camp but we don't know if we would be accepted in SRANI.

CIT VILLAGE (MEGALOPOLIS)

Being a CIT at Wauapaca can prove to be quite adventurous. Altho we got rained out of our Overnighter we still found many ways to amuse ourselves. One of our pastimes was to dream about the kitchen girls. Jason Kosova, one of the first four weekers didn't have to dream much. Josh Silverstein proved to be one of the best D & D players. He even helped Harold Pine destroy a 15th level character. Jerry Lubelchek amused himself by swating flys and flexing his muscles. We only had two CITs in the Cabins and they were truly the 'gods' of the camp, both physically and mentally. The "Harold Harold" cheer was heard wherever he was present, and Gary made himself well known with his desire to dominate the batting average roster. We went to town frequently and tried to figure out ways to get past the strict $3.50 limit on food purchases. Seth even tried to claim that his HoHos were used as bug repellent. Steve Wanty came from the furthest distance--at least 3/4 of a mile from home but moved in anyway. Between the sessions the CITs got to go to the fair. There we discovered what studs Brad Waxman and Jeff Kaplan really were. Brad braved the Zipper with one of the girls while the rest of us spent our money on the rides and booths trying to win valuable prizes.

The second four weeks we'll tell you about those wild and crazy CITs. Firstly we did have alot more priviledges than ever before being allowed to have two or three afternoons a week away from camp. We played baseball against Camp Mosheva (beat their yarmulkes off once and got beat once), spend two afternoons cooling off at the falls, had a cookout at Brainards Bridge, played 9 holes of championship golf at Royal Oaks Golf Course. All of these and other activities made the program fantastic. The second four weekers included Ronnie "Card Shark" Levinson, Alan "GI Joe" Edelman, Brad "Mad Dog" Waxman, the CIT Bully. Andy, "That's my sport" Goldman, Jeff "Schnoz" Kaplan, and Steve "Get your --- hands off" Blevit joined us lat. The eight weekers consisted of Jason "Metal head" Siegal, who would rather chop off his arm than listen to pop music, Jon "Mr. Health" Greenspahn, Jim "Superskiier" Feinstein, Matt "Mr. Kleenex" Glass, Larry

"Tell me something funny, Warren" Shneider, Teddy "The Hairdo" Levine, and Greg "Big Guy" Silverman were amongst us. Also eight weekers were David "KitKat" Kitzes, the CIT comedian, Bobby "Alfalfa" Schless, Dave "Baby Talk" Melam, David "Rebel Boy" Euer, Seth "Scary Stories" Kramer, Mitch "Mr. Tree" Bass, Steve "Tell me, tell me!" Wanty, and Jon "Wild Man" Torchen. We had some camp fires, told some stories and even won Gold Rush Day on a spur of the moment after discovering that our inner tube ride wouldn't work. We made a mini-carnival inside the Village with bowling, magazine cover drawing, casinos, telegram services, and a crystal ball reading. We did have food in the village until a stroke of fate had it removed. Still we had a great time being the Big Boys in camp. The village counsellors who did a wonderful job controlling us were Paul Warshauer and Craig Layne. We are all looking forward to coming back next year!!
