CABIN EIGHT

Cabin 8: Yes, another grueling eight weeks have gone by! They included such exciting programs as Sports Spectacular and the Olympics. To tell the truth, all the programs set up by the staff were very good.

Our cabin, like any other, had three groups of kids: the first four weekers, the second four weekers, and the eight weekers.

In the first four weeks, we had five kids: Jeremy Fisher, Harold Alterson, Brett Schwartz, Paul Storck, and of course, Gregg Feinstein. We had a campout the first four weeks and yes, it rained. We had to return at two o'clock in the morning. We also had a very athletic cabin--right Harold? Jeremy did get a boo boo on his face, but we won't mention that.

Just so you know, the eight weekers were Gregg Feinstein, Paul Storck, Brett Schwartz, and Harold Alterson.

Our excellent cabin CIT was Jon Torshen. Jon was always spending his time with other CITs, or he was in the kitchen.

Our excellent counsellors were John Everman and Kenny Saunders (and his dancing). There's not much to say about those two.

The second four weekers were Danny Schwab, Adam Liebman, Scott Pinsky, Todd Medintz, and Alex Jacobs--an eight weeker who moved up from another cabin.

Yes, there was a campout the second four, and yes it got wet. This time however, they didn't come back. They stayed, and in the morning they were very sore!

It was fun. There's not much else to say.

Josh Abrams, Greg Cohen, Ira Rosen, Danny Drexler, Kegan Greene, Scott Berland, Jeff Fagel, Marc Stein, and Sean Swidler were the campers that graced cabin 9 during the second four week session. John "Motorboat" Morris and Mark "Mellow Out" Dabroski were our counsellors. We had a great time during clean-up--we always had perfect scores until the inspectors came through. About the best time our cabin had was Gold Rush day, which we won. We ran a dunking machine, with most of us taking turns in the chair of doom. Our campout was fun, but a little wet. The lake at our campout site was great, and so were the waterfalls, but the rain that night was definitely not appreciated. We're a great cabin that had a great summer at a great camp.

By Danny Drexler and Sean Swidler

In the first four weeks, the kids in cabin 10 were, Chad Arbogast, Benjy Schwartz, Peter Berk, John Milgram, Ed Schotz, Jason Charles, Jon Goldman, and Jon Gordon. Our counsellors were Todd "Dominator" Goers and Craig "Terminator" Layne. Our kitchen raid will be something that we remember for a long time. We had more fun than humans should endure on the Crystal River, and while camping out.

Rest Hour in cabin 10 meant Cub games on the radio. Jon Gordon always cheered for the Cubs, while Ed Schotz was a big fan of Larry Bowa. On sports, one of the biggest arguments in our cabin was whether or not Professional Wrestling was real or not. Sports Spectacular was a big hit in cabin 10.

After a sad departure by the first four weekers, the eight weekers--Ed Schotz, Jon Gordon, Jason Charles, and Jon Goldman--enjoyed a day at the Iola Old Car Festival. the next day, the second four weekers arrived. The buses brought in Henry Schwab, Adam Wolf, Mike Scherer, Steve Aaronson, Scott Levine, and Jordy Levinson.

Our campout during the second four was as much fun as the first four's. Some guys got an early awakening when their tent blew down. Steve Aaronson loved the waterfalls. The "Great Case of the Blue Folder" will never leave our memories. Remember how Jason Charles and Adam Wolf loved sleeping on the floor?

Camp was a great way to spend the summer.

During the first four weeks in Cabin #11 we had a lot of fun. Our counselors were Ron Lavine and Frank Felsl. The first four week campers included Jeff "Want to hear my life story?" Ptak, Adam "How much for that shirt?" Moschin, Corey "Mr. Tennis" Fisher, Rick "The Ethiopian" Richker, and Danny "Butterfly Bomb" Klapman. We went on a campout with Frank. (At least most of us did. Adam and Howie got homesick for the cabin when it got dark.) We also went out on a night on the town, and we hit all the action spots in Waupaca: the beach, miniature golf, the Wheel House, Fleet Farm, the A&W, the Dairy Queen, "A View to a Kill, and a softball game. We missed the counselor hunt, but it was worth it. (Howie threw a frisbee into the Chain of Lakes so the town would have something to remember us by.)

When the first four weekers left, the eight week campers had the cabin all to themselves for twenty-four hours. They included: Chris "J.T." Thake, Gary "P for Pass" Schotz the all powerful and the all knowing CIT, and Howie "Spike, I told you, K.O." Fleischer. Between sessions, we went to the world reknown Iola '85 car show where we picked up some fabulous fan belts and hub caps. Frank moved to cabin #6, the second four weekers came, and life marched forward.

The second four weekers included: Alan "Flashlight" Cook, Neal "Competition" Silins, Andy "Willie" Kaplan, Marc "Herman forgot his name tag" Hirsch, Jason "Does my hair look alright?" Page, Peter "The Powerful" Berk, and Eric "Canteen" Waxman.

The Summer of '85 featured some memorable moments. Who could forget our daily visits from Adam's best friend, Robert Resnick? How about the early morning broom handle "adventures" supplied by Ron? Then there was "What's your gender, Adam?" (Beef Jerky, of course!) And who could forget our nerf hoop or the famous sign: "Keep this door closed or the bathroom will smell like the cabin!"

And if nothing else, we all got sick of "Put Me In Coach." And as Mike Euer might say: "What's that boy doin' in the terlet?"

All in all, it was a great summer at camp and one that we'll always remember. "What a bargain!!"

CIT

In the course of human events some institutions must be expanded for them to thrive. A fine example of this is the CIT Village. The CIT's of 1985 created the CIT Republic, a place where liberty and justice is preserved except when campers enter. The first four CIT's were: Eric Fine who was and is a great impersonator, and a fine tennis player, Ander Lurie who is the ultimate basketball player (except for Scott Rubin who rocks them ha-ha!) and an incredible tennis player, Jon Levy who was a great tennis enthusiast and a great ping-pong player, and last but not least, Stu Goldman. A man of few, but hilarious words, Stu was a great guy and even had a day named after him.

Our Counsellors were: Paul (the Frog) Warshauer who could never keep his pants on right and Lenny (Roofball King) Kass. Lenny bought to this camp the immortal game of Ga Ga.

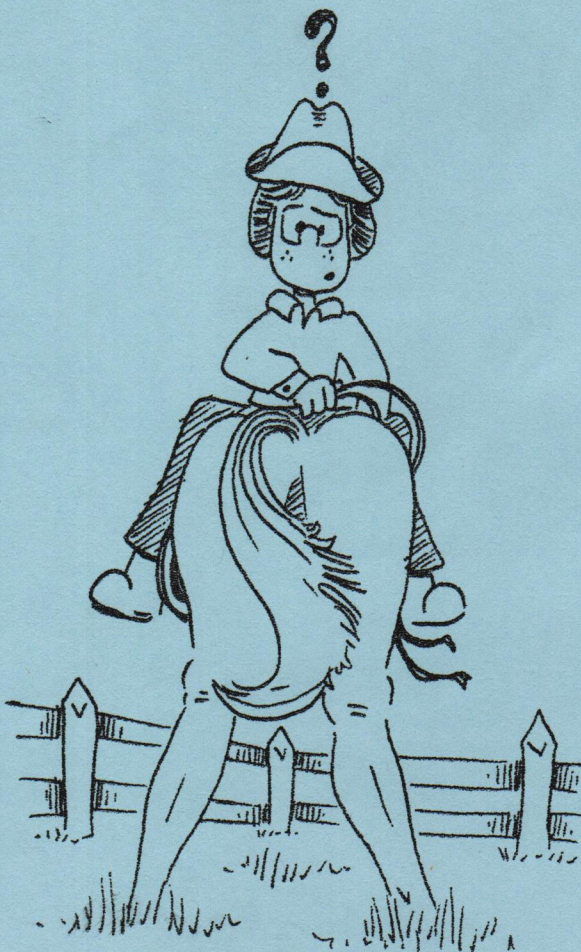

Our second four weekers were: Steve Sime who was the teacher for Charlie Brown (wah wah wah) and who was Mr. Baseball, Josh Shanes who was the CIT commentator, Lee Eisner who was a great swimmer and a success at every sport, Neal Rosenblum who was a champion at tennis and a "Wise Guy", Steve Edelman who was a wild man on a mini bike and a high pitched screamer, Brian Pinsky who was a great first baseman and would laugh at anything remotely funny, and Mike Jelinek who could immitate any South American and could dominate in Archery.

Our eight weekers were Scott (Moe) Douglas who could windsurf across the globe, Eric Goldstein who could run as fast as the wind and put on the gas, David Costello who was fast, strong and funny, and anything end everything else, Steve Wanty who lived in Paul's cabin was a great skier and gossip king, and lastly Scott Rubin who was a good golfer, a good shot in riflery and brave enough to write this article!

We cannot forget out never ending canoe trip down the Waupaca River and the trips to town every week! The stores in Waupaca and Stevens Point make their big money when we come to town. We had seen a lot of movies by the time summer was over and had dined at the Oakwood. We also remember the Portage County Fair that we got to go to (and get sick at, right Jelinek?). What about the girls that chased Eric and Neal? Kitchen every night or so was a pleasant way to spend the end of the day after the monsters, uh, little kids went to bed.

Here are some of things that the 1985 CIT's will be remembered for: Eric Fine's Fernando, Ander Lurie's forehand, Neal Rosenblum's backhand, Eric Goldstein's number three through infinity, Mike Jelinek's translations, Steve Edelman's "LEAVE", Brian Pinsky's trap behind Cabin B, Jon Levy's "Old Bat", Steve Sime's "50", Josh Shanes's study tips, Lee Eisner's shoes, Scott Douglas's running, Jon Torshen's little gift to the woods, Gary Shotz's friend's laugh, David Euer's "Thumpy", Steve Wanty's secret love letters, Dave Costello's "Brady Bunch", Scott Rubin's Synchronicity tape, and Stu Goldman's "Arf,Arf". The republic also can't forget Jon, Gary, David, and Steve who were the Cabin CIT's and contributed to the success of the Republic. Our CIT Republic of 1985 will stand out in our history as a great experience.
